Building a drug-free future together.

TUMAINI brings together Congolese stakeholders and prevention partners with a shared ambition: to give young people the knowledge to understand drugs, make informed choices and protect their future.

Complementary expertise, a shared ambition.

PNLCT | National Programme for the Fight against Drug Addiction

The Congolese partner helps define national priorities and organise local stakeholders. Dr Patrice Milambo coordinates the review of the educator's manual with the programme's scientific commission.

FDFE | Foundation for a Drug Free Europe

FDFE contributes to exchanges between partners and supports project development, helping prepare training and share experience in drug prevention.

Drug Free World | Educational resources and tools

Drug Free World resources provide a starting point for drug information and education. Their adaptation to the DRC is being prepared with Congolese teams.

Where are we now?

The partnership has been signed. Work is focused on the implementation plan, adapting the manual and preparing an initial group of trainers. A pilot in Kinshasa is envisaged; its precise location, resources and schedule remain to be agreed.

Status update: October 2026.

Turning commitment into action

An approach that develops step by step

- 1 Understand the situation in the DRC
- 2 Develop the white paper
- 3 Agree on a charter and partnership
- 4 Define the implementation master plan
- 5 Test a pilot
- 6 Evaluate and improve
- 7 Expand progressively according to results

Become a partner

Host an activity

Provide a venue, bring together an audience and prepare a prevention session with the team.

Take part in training

Identify educators or community stakeholders able to learn to use the resources and pass on their knowledge.

Contribute expertise

Help adapt educational content, understand the local context or evaluate interventions.

Support practical needs

Offer logistical support, print resources or contribute to a specific need identified with the partners.

Each collaboration is agreed jointly. Resources and commitments are defined before an activity begins.

Let's discuss your proposal
